Ergonomic Assessments and Training

Ergonomic Assessments

We provide comprehensive assessment of workers to determine the key areas of ergonomic risk associated with workstations. The assessments are conducted by qualified physiotherapists with particular interest and experience in occupational injuries.

The assessments include education of workers at the time of assessment and a brief report outlining changes made and recommendations given.

Ergonomic Training

The training is delivered by qualified physiotherapists with significant experience in the management of occupational injuries.

The training involves a presentation to workers followed by a practical session based on workstation set-up.

Workers are always involved through the identification of risk factors and practical training.
